

Reinforcement learning

In reinforcement learning, an "agent" receives information about its environment and learns to pick actions that will maximize some reward.

Reinforcement learning

