

Clustered data

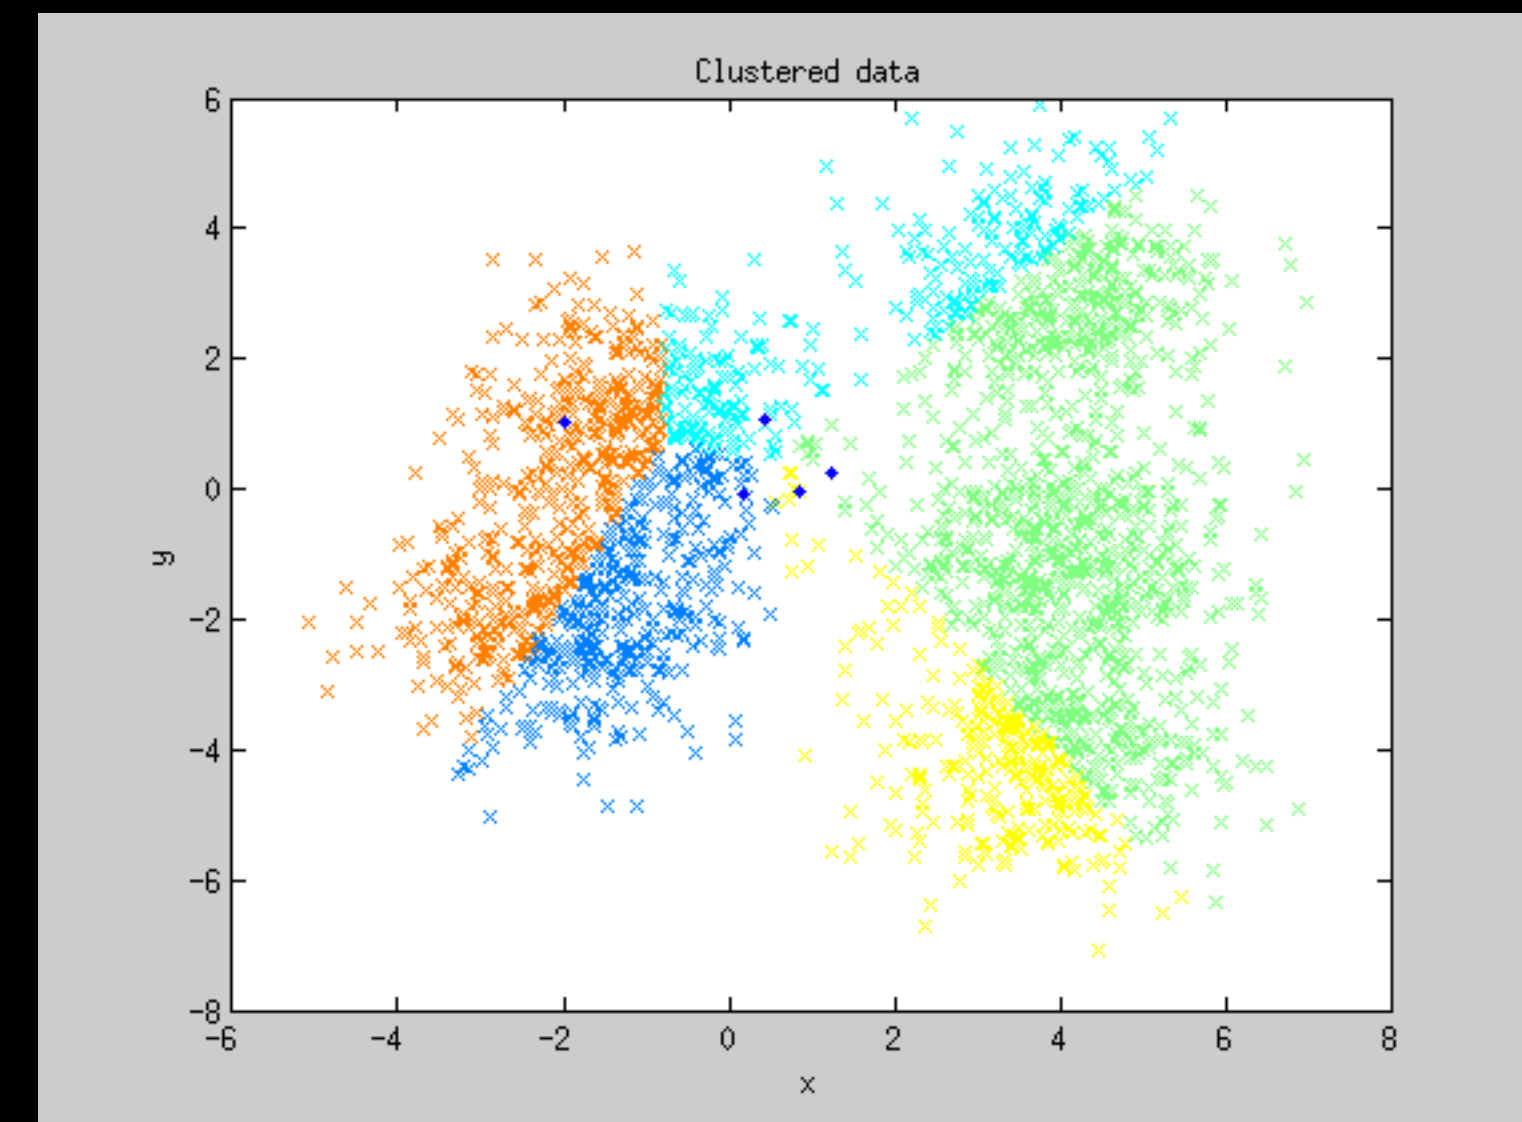

Clustered data

Unsupervised Learning

Finding interesting transformations of the input data without the help of any targets

Self Supervised Learning

Supervised learning without human-annotated labels. There are still labels involved (since the learning has to be supervised by something), but they are generated from the input data itself, typically using a heuristic algorithm

